“The government must choose on which foot to stand on” – Muslim immigration leads to increase anti-Semitism in Sweden

Researchers now say that anti-Semitism is increasing in Sweden and that threats and harassment emanates from Arab and Muslim immigrants. It is primarily from Muslim youths from segregates suburbs according to Swedish Radio. At the same time, investigations show that the Jewish communities in Sweden spend ¼ of its membership fees on security and safety measures.

The Sweden Democrats party secretary, Björn Söder, says that the government must choose in which foot to stand on.

- The parties in parliament and primarily the socialist government has been partly responsible for the increase anti-Semitism by allowing and supporting Islamism and the mass immigration of Muslims to Sweden, says Björn
- Lena Hallengren, minister that handles religious affairs and youth questions, claims willingness to deal with the problems but that is not trustworthy while here party leader, Göran Persson, more or less promises state funding for mosques and therefore sanctions the hatred that spreads from there. It is in the mosques that the hate is taught and growing, says Björn and points to the latest revelations about the largest mosque in Sweden selling anti-Jewish audio tapes.

According to Swedish Radio, the tapes features a man that, in Arabic, says that Jews are a disease, that they are brothers to “monkeys and pigs” and asks God to exterminate them.

- It is time for the government to choose which foot to stand on. They can hardly keep the Muslim immigration to Sweden at its current pace and at the same time claim willingness to fight anti-Semitism in the country.
